

I am writing in regards to the current LPFM expansion proposal that you are currently taking into consideration. While I am not certain of the details of this proposal, I feel that you would be doing a great disservice to many people if it resulted in removing such services as KLOVE national broadcasting from the radio. KLOVE has been a wonderful way to keep families connected regardless of geography. I know of many service people who listen in, with the comfort of knowing their families are sharing the music and message as well in other parts of the country. Also, while we have one other major Christian music station in the area, KLOVE's PBS format allows so much more freedom in actually serving as a ministry to people, with no sponsor concerns or censorship (however well-meaning). This allows a much larger freedom of speech and the ability of local churches and missions to get their messages out to the community.

We have a large number of major and small market rock and roll, punk, rap, shockjock and country stations here. Please do not take an action that gives more commercial oriented stations more power, and removes a positive service from the airwaves that delivers a much needed message and provides such a wonderful way for families to stay connected together!
